

Raymond James Cares Fact Sheet

A proud tradition of giving back

Since our founding in 1962, Raymond James has been committed to giving back to our communities by focusing on supporting culture and the arts, health and social services, and education. Our advisors, associates and affiliates volunteer their time and resources to benefit programs and organizations in communities across the United States.

CORPORATE VOLUNTEERISM

Our Raymond James Cares program encourages advisors and associates to make a difference in their communities. While the firm supports community service efforts and charitable giving throughout the year, May is dubbed "Raymond James Cares Month" to inspire a collective effort and impact.

From holding back-to-school and food drives for children and families in need to beautifying parks, homes and beaches, our advisors and associates were busy during Raymond James Cares Month. In 2018, more than 3,000 advisors and associates volunteered over 10,000 hours to 272 organizations in 142 local communities across North America and overseas.

Over the last six years, Raymond James associates have contributed more than 36,800 hours of service during our official month of giving back.

CHARITABLE GIVING AND UNITED WAY

As part of our longtime commitment to giving, Raymond James sets aside a percentage of profits for charitable purposes. Included in that allocation is our annual United Way fundraising campaign, a tradition that goes back to 1970, during which employee contributions are matched dollar-for-dollar by the firm.

WHO WE HELP

Raymond James supports many organizations through sponsorships, including Raymond James Stadium, American Stage Theatre Company at Raymond James Theatre, the Raymond James Gasparilla Festival of the Arts and more. Collectively, the firm and its associates support 500+ organizations annually, volunteering more than 10,000 hours total each year.
